

Islip, NY – Islip Town Supervisor Nolan and Councilman Gene Parrington recently attended the opening of the READesign Reading Corner at North Elementary School in Brentwood.

The READesign Reading Corner is part of a project by Capital One Bank and The Heart of America Foundation to redesign libraries throughout the nation in order to inspire students to read. Over seventy Capital One Bank team members and Heart of America staff members took part in the effort to transform the North Elementary School's library into an environment that enhances the students' learning and imagination.

"These students are tomorrow's leaders," said Supervisor Nolan. "I'm very proud of what these organizations did to provide these children with the tools necessary to achieve their dreams."

Pictured (from left to right) are John Flynn, Vice President of READesign; Angie Carpenter, Suffolk County Treasurer; Supervisor Nolan; Councilman Parrington; Patrick Morris, Principal, North Elementary School; Ellen Weber, Suffolk Market President, Capital One Bank; and Andrew Corrado, Nassau Market President, Capital One Bank.